

GrowthCap's Top 40 Under 40 Growth Investors

GrowthCap's 2015 40 Under 40 Growth Investors list was compiled based on nominations as well as a methodical review of the nominated investor's deal experience, overall background, firm reputation, and position as well as other key factors. We gave the most weight to investors whose peers ranked them as the best of the best. Please see below for the full list.

Clockwise from top left: Daniel Kim (Bregal Sagemount), Jules Maltz (Institutional Venture Partners), Dominic Ang (Turn/River Capital), Sean Cantwell (Volition Capital)

"Having worked in growth financings for over a decade, and having spoken with hundreds of investors along the way I am now more encouraged and excited than ever about the future of the growth economy. The top investors on our list demonstrate the experience, talent, and drive needed to ensure today's entrepreneurs and executives receive the right financial and strategic support to grow their companies and achieve success over the long run."

- RJ Lumba, CEO of GrowthCap

1  Daniel Kim  Bregal Sagemount          Founding Partner	Daniel Kim is a Partner and Founder at Bregal Sagemount where his current investments include Accela, Key Health, MicroEdge and MOBI Wireless. Bregal has quickly made a name for itself in the growth investing space since its founding in 2012, and their $650M fund is one of the largest debut funds in the growth company segment. Kim reiterated his mission to GrowthCap, "Our mission at Sagemount is to be the most flexible source of capital for growth companies. We appreciate that every business and situation is different and have built a platform that can meet entrepreneurs' needs across all parts of a capital structure, debt or equity, minority or control. Instead of showing up with a preconceived notion of what an investment opportunity looks like, we start with a blank sheet of paper and figure out what makes sense for everyone around the table. This collaborative approach often makes Sagemount the ideal partner for owners and operators." The firm has also expanded to include various credit-focused strategies. Prior to his time at Bregal Sagemount, Kim was a Vice President at Goldman Sachs' Americas Special Situations Group, where he led investments in the technology sector. He received an MBA from Harvard Business School and both a BS in Biological Sciences and a BA in Music from Stanford University.
2  Jules Maltz  Institutional Venture Partners          General Partner	Jules Maltz has over a decade of investing experience in high growth software and internet companies. Jules is currently a General Partner at Institutional Venture Partners, where since joining in 2008 he has led investments in Buddy Media (CRM), Dropbox, Indiegogo, Progreso Financiero, RetailMeNot (SALE), TuneIn, Zendesk (ZEN), Zenefits and Slack. Reflecting on the past year, Jules remarks to GrowthCap, "It's an amazing time to work in later-stage investing. Companies are growing faster than ever with the potential to reach hundreds of millions of users and meaningful revenue within a very short timeframe. I feel lucky to be surrounded by an incredible team at IVP looking for the top growth-stage companies." Previously, Jules worked for global private equity firm 3i where he helped initiate the firm's strategy for internet investing. Jules is also active in the broader technology community through the National Advisory Council for Techbridge, a nonprofit organization that helps girls discover technology and science. Jules has an MBA from Stanford University and graduated with a BA in Economics from Yale University.

3  Dominic Ang  Turn/River Capital          Founding Partner	Dominic Ang is the Founder of Turn/River Capital and specializes in growth capital investments for small-scale technology, web and SaaS companies. Dominic says, "We started Turn/River because we see the emergence of new breed of web company – bootstrapped, extremely lean, often profitable, usually SaaS, operating almost entirely online. We think these companies are, in a strange way, a tough fit for the existing financial players: too capital efficient for venture capital, too small for traditional private equity and too messy for strategics. Turn/River was built specifically to step into this gap. With our flexible capital and our data-driven operational approach, we can help these companies double or triple their growth rate, and build value for everyone." Dominic is a successful entrepreneur turned investor, and leverages his significant operating experience to help portfolio companies optimize marketing and distribution strategies. He is known to regularly roll-up his sleeves and work closely with management teams to optimize their approach to market for growth and profitability. Prior to founding Turn/River, Dominic was the CEO of My Perfect Sale (acquired by Sugar, Inc) and a VP at Vector Capital. Dominic has a long track record of success, having been on the board of Register.com, WatchGuard Technologies, BookFresh &amp; Plum District.
